

Reproductive Health Care Accessibility Act

Reps. Cori Bush (MO-01) & Ayanna Pressley (MA-07)

For many people with disabilities, access to reproductive health care is significantly hindered by structural barriers such as discrimination, physical and financial barriers, and a lack of inclusion of people with disabilities in the healthcare workforce. People with disabilities are less likely to receive contraception counseling, timely prenatal care, and are at a greater risk for adverse pregnancy outcomes.

The Reproductive Health Care Accessibility Act would eliminate barriers and strengthen access to reproductive care for people with disabilities by:

- Providing grant funding to carry out training programs for existing health care professionals providing reproductive health care for people with disabilities;
- Providing funding to carry out education and training programs to recruit and train people with disabilities in the healthcare workforce;
- Providing grant funding to carry out sexual and reproductive health care education programs for people with disabilities;
- Establishing a new technical assistance center to provide recommendations and best practices regarding sexual and reproductive health care for people with disabilities; and
- Directing the Department of Health and Human Services to carry out a study to analyze reproductive health care for people with disabilities.

While people with disabilities have historically faced discrimination and barriers to achieving full access to health care, the Dobbs decision has made it much more difficult for people with disabilities to receive reliable reproductive care. The Reproductive Health Care Accessibility Act takes significant strides to ensure people with disabilities are at the forefront of the reproductive justice movement.

The legislation is endorsed by: National Disability Rights Network; National Association of Councils on Developmental Disabilities; American Association of People with Disabilities; Center for American Progress; National Women's Law Center; National Birth Equity Collective; National Family Planning & Reproductive Health Association; National Association of Nurse Practitioners in Women's Health; Rare And Black; Dr. Jamila Taylor, Director of Health Care Reform and Senior Fellow at The Century Foundation; Kimberly Knackstedt, Ph.D., Co-Director of the Disability Economic Justice Collaborative and Senior Fellow at The Century Foundation; URGE: Unite for Reproductive & Gender Equity; Johns Hopkins School of Nursing; Johns Hopkins Disability Health Research Center; Physicians for Reproductive Health; Catholics for Choice; National Partnership for Women and Families; Power to Decide; Docs With Disabilities Initiative; NARAL Pro-Choice America; National Latina Institute for Reproductive Justice; Planned Parenthood Federation of America; Advocates for Youth; Center for Reproductive Rights; National Council of Jewish Women; Autistic Self Advocacy Network; March for Moms; and Association of Maternal & Child Health Programs.

Read the full legislative text here.